First Tree Farm in County Dedicated at Waterford.

Harry Brown (left) and Raynor Brown of North Waterford

The first tree farm in this part of the State was dedicated last Thursday afternoon at Waterford, when appropriate exercises were held at a 40 acre plot belonging to Raynor Brown. The site is one of some 25 lots owned by Mr. Brown in the vicinity totalling some 5,000 acres. For three generations the family has practiced improved forestry methods providing a continued crop of forest products.

Richard Waldron of Bethel, chairman of the dedication and a member of the State Tree Farm Committee commented on the operation and introduced Norman Gray of Fryeburg, also a committee member, who outlined the tree farm plan and noted that on the plot which the group inspected Brown had not only made several cuttings, but in the process had removed the diseased, dead, and deformed trees, allowing the others a chance to grow.

Forestry Commissioner A. D. Nutting explained there are now 14 tree farms in Maine comprising 100,000 acres.

He spoke of the tremendous value of the lumber industry to the State which he said is estimated at half a billion dollars annually. He also stated that Brown had planted 40,000 white pine and 2,000 red pine in 1948, and the group later inspected that planting. Nutting complimented Mr. and Mrs. Raynor Brown, and Mr. Brown's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brown, for their far sightedness in raising lumber as a crop.

REMEMBER WAR DEAD

LEGION COMMANDER URGES

Members of The American Legion were urged to be among the first to put on memorial poppies on Poppy Day next Saturday in a message issued today by Herbert Kittredge, Commander of the Mount-Allen Legion Post.

Reminding the veterans that the poppy is a symbol of remembrance for their fallen comrades, and provides very real aid for the disabled and needy children of veterans, Commander Kittredge said:

"We all remember those comrades of ours who gave their lives for America so on Poppy Day let us be among the first to put on their memorial flower. Wearing a poppy is a little thing to do but it has big meaning. It means that we honor and are grateful to those who gave their all that America might remain a free land. We who returned safely from war service most certainly owe this symbolic gesture to those who did not come back.

"And when we put on a poppy, let us remember, too, those veterans who are enduring suffering and sickness, and the veterans' children who are in need, and let us give generously for the little crepe paper flower which some disabled man has made for us to wear.

"The women of our American Legion Auxiliary will be on the streets throughout the day to bring the memorial flowers to the public. I am sure every American Legion member will give them his encouragement and any help they may need in carrying out this mission of patriotic service."

These pictures cover a wide range of subject matter, and are all of salon standing. They will form the main feature of the annual camera club exhibit, always a feature of the Academy's Commencement exercises. They will be hung in Room 106 on the first floor of the main classroom and office building, Hanescom Hall, during the last week of school and will remain on exhibition thru Sunday, June 14.

OXFORD COUNTY CHAPTER, RED CROSS, HOLDS MEETING

Representing the Bethel Branch, Kimball Ames, attended the annual Red Cross Chapter meeting at South Paris, Monday night.

Officers elected were: Philip Stone, chairman; Mrs. Eleanor Goodwin, vice-chairman; James A. Phillips, treasurer; Mrs. Marjorie Penley, secretary.

Interesting talks were given by Mrs. Wilder on organizational functions and by Miss Jones on disaster; there have been three here this year, very costly to the state budget - fires at Rockland and Freeport and the recent floods; and on the blood program which in 5 visits yielded 432 pints out of our quota of 500. The next visit will be July 2 at Norway.

Various activities were reported. The treasurer reported such a failure to meet the Chapter's Fund Drive Quota that there could be no money allocated to this year's Water Safety Program. This means that Bethel's program will have to be supported locally if it is to carry on. It is such a worthwhile project that every effort will be made by the sponsoring Sst. Club to get funds for the necessary instruction. Offers of help or ideas will be appreciated.

Faith In Prosperity

WASHINGTON — "The prosperity of every American, whatever his station in life, depends on American business and industry producing more wealth through production of more of the goods and services for everyday living," Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks said to me. "Thus," he said, "our prime objective at the Commerce Department is to help business to do this better job of production and distribution through the improvement of our various services."

We were driving past the Jefferson Memorial en route to the Washington National Airport, working our way in stops and starts through the heavy 5 o'clock traffic of government employees hurrying toward the Virginia residential districts. I had visited with Secretary Weeks at the Commerce Department and since we both were flying to speaking engagements we continued the interview en route to our planes.

"On the Run"

The Secretary had had a busy day with a heavy calendar, writing a speech and shaping up organizational policies with his Under Secretary Walter Williams and other key men in his executive family. A score of newspapermen had followed us to the Secretary's private elevator, calling out questions on personnel matters. Since he was overbooked at the airport his replies were given "on the run." It was a typical Washington scene.

The questions I put to Secretary Weeks were designed to bring out his rounded opinion on the national economic future, the broad and better future of all of us. I respect his opinion both as former head of one of America's substantial industries and as the Secretary of Commerce. Though new on the job, he has recently had access to the many business barometers constantly being compiled by the department. Without hesitation he said to me: "Put your faith in the American business system, and strongly recommend your readers to do so, too. This magnificent American machine — financed by those who have saved, managed by experts in administration and production, and operated by labor — can do the job in war or peace if wise government gives encouragement in every possible way.

Picking Up Slack

"Some transitions will occur as, at a later date, defense expenditures taper off and industry is diverted to normal production. But plant and equipment expenditures are today advancing, despite the fact that some defense-supporting programs already have reached their peak. And limitless frontiers are opening in research laboratories which lead to all sorts of new things, new processes and new worlds of progress."

Secretary Weeks, a New Englander and a graduate of Harvard '110, pulled himself up through the business world using his own initiative, enterprise and horse sense. He interrupted his early career in a Massachusetts banking house to serve with the first Army Artillery Battalion, 25th Division, in the thick of the European campaign in World War I. At war's end, he became interested in manufacturing. He joined the staff of Reed & Barton Corp., famed silverware. When called to Washington by President Eisenhower, he was named Chairman of this firm and also of United-Care Furniture Corp., and he was nationally recognized for his knowledge of the business world.

No Tampering

As Secretary of Commerce, tough-minded Sinclair Weeks doesn't seem inclined toward tampering business. "We in the Commerce Department, and the public as a whole," he said, "expect business to assume state-of-the-art responsibilities to the new freedom from governmental backstopping. This requires good management, labor relations, self-discipline and the daring venture spirit. It means also an appreciation of the fact that world trade is a two-way street."

★ AUTHOR OF "HOW TO STOP WORRYING AND START LIVING" ★

WALTER F. HICKEN, 15 Baldwin Street, Montpelier, Vermont, says as a child he was sickly. Here is a resume of some of the trials that beset him. During his third year in school he had mumps, measles and whooping cough. This left him in a further weakened condition, resulting in a terrible speech impediment, a combination of stammer and stutter. At the age of twelve he developed a gitter and an attempt was made to remove the growth by X-ray. However, knowledge of the X-ray was limited, and a severe burn resulted which involved medical care for years.

He finished grade school in eight years but he would not attend high school. Humiliation over his speech impediment brought on a nervous breakdown at sixteen that resulted in his being completely shut-in for three months. At eighteen he had another breakdown brought on by the embarrassment of the speech impediment.

Finally he obtained a diagnosis of his impediment, the gist of it being that the trouble was mental and that for a sum of money, beyond their means, he could be cured. Grasping at this thought he bought books on applied and practical psychology. He studied long hours and attempted to devise a system of speech correction, using the trial and error method. After eight years and many set backs he made progress that convinced him he could effect a cure.

He obtained a position driving a bus so that he would be forced to talk to the public. Despite his handicap, he built a desire to operate a school and help others to have normal speech.

So he left the employ of the bus company and accepted a position of manager of an Air Show (stunt fliers). In this position he had to book shows and act as publicity agent and announcer and he had to talk before groups of from five hundred to fifteen thousand people in two years.

Studying day and night he obtained a certificate as an instructor in Navigation and Meteorology, and during the war he was employed by the Civil Aeronautics Administration as an Aircraft Communicator. Following the war he taught for several years on the G. I. Training Program and through the results proved to himself that he could teach successfully. "Life," says Walter Hicken, "is like the weather; after the storm, the sun always shines."

Happenings That Affect the Future of Every Individual — National and International Problems Inseparable From Local Welfare

Few speeches of recent times have been received with the enthusiasm given the one made by President Eisenhower before the American Society of Newspaper Editors. Many agreed with David Lawrence, long a forthright critic of our foreign policy, who called it "The greatest address of our times on international affairs." The President himself obviously considered it to be one of top importance — he was painfully ill with food poisoning but insisted on making the address in person against the advice of his doctors.

It was not the speech of an extremist. He did not reject recent Russian peace overtures — nor did he accept them at face value. He laid down a positive program for ending today's hot and cold war, and with it a set of principles which he held that self-government and free elections for all nations are inalienable, and are the key to peace. He told the Kremlin, in effect, that it could have peace or war, as it may choose, and pledged that the United States is ready to serve "the needs, rather than the fears, of the world." There was no shred of appeasement in the speech, and there was no arrogance or saber rattling either.

The President took the large view that Korea is simply part of a world-wide problem — not a separate problem, complete in itself. This, of course, is the view that practically all informed observers hold. And he called upon the Soviet Union to cooperate in certain specific needs, which can be summarized as follows:

1. An immediate end to hostilities in Korea, coupled with political discussions leading to the holding of free elections in a United Korea.
2. An end to the communist-inspired wars in Indochina and Malaya.
3. A treaty for Austria which will free that unhappy little nation from economic exploitation and military occupation.
4. An end to the division of Germany, which he termed unnatural, and the establishment of "a free and united Germany, with a government based upon free and secret elections."

The key to everything he said, as David Lawrence also pointed out, "... is self-government — the right of every people, including the Soviet people, to choose their own form of government."

Not long ago the reaction of Russia to this world, in all probability, have been one more campaign of vilification of the President, the United States, and the free world. It was not the case this time. Pravda, which is always the voice of the Kremlin, treated the speech guardedly but politely and printed a summary of

THE biggest step toward economic made by the Eisenhower administration to date was the recently announced decision to cut ex-President Truman's defense budget by $2.5 billion.

President Eisenhower said his proposed cut in appropriations would not reduce the effective military strength this country has planned for itself and its allies in 1954. And it is important to note that he does not expect the cut to completely balance the budget for the year beginning July 1. But he declared that his administration is making progress in that direction — and thus toward cutting taxes — every day.

Everyone has heard the ex-President say: "There's more ways of skinning a cat than one." United Nations delegates at Panmunjom last week applied that thought to their talks with Communists for peace in Korea.

The Allies warned the Reds they might take a short cut through the stalled prisoner exchange problem by simply releasing 32,000 North Koreans who don't want to go home. Allied negotiators said such action would follow a pattern created by the Reds themselves. Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison told the Reds turning the prisoners free would only be following their policy of liberating prisoners at the front.

"Your side already has shown us the way," he said, "it would seem quite appropriate that these Koreans whom we still are holding as prisoners . . . should be released without further delay."

It was obvious, observers at the scene reported, that the Reds were not overjoyed with the prospect, through their lobbies for special benefits, are often to blame for the high cost of government. They must practice what they preach when it comes to special legislation. Assuming their share of responsibilities, and setting an

These 32,000 North Koreans want to live in South Korea and would become material for the South Korean army.

At this writing the truce talks remain deadlocked over the selection of a neutral country to handle prisoners. The Allies suggest Switzerland as a neutral. The Reds rejected the proposal, but refused to name their selection.

Unless some important break occurs within a few days it now appears that the truce talks may come to an abrupt end with the Allies walking out. The sessions have, at the moment, reached the name-calling stage where they were broken off last October 2.

Expenditure cuts in Washington are being extended these days beyond the federal government. Congressional Quarterly reports that lobby spending last year dropped to the lowest point since passage of the Federal Regulation of Lobbying Act of 1946.

According to the CQ report, 257 groups reported spending $1,823,581 in 1952, compared with $3,771,068 that 293 organizations reported in 1951.

Peak spending by lobby groups on record is $10,302,301 paid out by 340 organizations in 1950, while the lowest previously reported was $5,191,834 in 1947, the first full year of operation under the Act.

Topping all these reports was the National Association of Electric Companies, which shot up from fourth place in 1951. The American Medical Association, which led the pack in 1949, and again in 1950, was second last year. In third place was the Association of American Railroads.

V. A. NEWS LETTER

Veterans receiving benefit checks from the Veterans Administration who change their address, go back into military service, or suspect their checks may have been lost in the mail should take VA into their confidence. M. L. Stoddard, Manager VA Center, Togus, Maine, said that only in this way can veterans expect to receive payments regularly, or not receive payments not due them.

Although his advice is aimed particularly at men newly discharged from service it is practical information for all ex-GIs. VA checks, except for USLI dividend payments, can be delivered only to the persons to whom they are made out, at the address listed on the check. Postal employees are not permitted to forward such mail, and checks not deliverable must be returned to the Treasury.

If a veterans moves, he must notify the VA regional office where his records are kept. All he needs is a letter over his own signature, giving his old and new addresses and his C-number. VA will authorize remailing of checks returned for incorrect address.

Stoddard sounded a special warning to men receiving disability compensation who are going back into service. Any money paid them for time after their return to active duty, he said, will eventually have to be repaid to the government. In such cases, the veteran should inform VA of the date of his return to service, so his name can be taken off the payment rolls. After discharge, he can reapply for disability compensation.

WORTH REPEATING

"The grand total of federal taxes collected in Connecticut in 1952 was $1,178,997,559. Just the increase in these federal taxes for 1952 over 1951, was more than the states own budget for all its home affairs." — Bridgeport (Conn.) Post.

"The economy has been forced with a powerful stimulant to the point where we are more than a little giddy. Now comes the question as to just how fast we can taper off." — Boston Globe.

"We incline to the Humphrey theory that the time has come to cut the costs so that we may enjoy spending what we earn in our own way instead of having the government spend so much of it for us." — Waterbury (Conn.) Republican.

It. High Soviet spokesmen spoke in general terms of Russia's desire to work with the United States and the rest of the world to end war and assure peace.

So matters stand now. The great question is whether Russia is sincere — or whether her current peaceful attitude is simply a blind to lull to sleep the Western world, to cause a cutback in the defense program, and thus to prepare the stage for more extensive Soviet aggression on a future date. No one can answer that question with conviction and those who carry the heavy responsibility of framing high policy are treading warily. At the same time, some hard-headed experts think that Russia may be pretty much on the level this time — if only for the reason that she has more than enough headaches to deal with at home, and hasn't the resources and energies to spare for costly foreign adventures.

In any event, the President has given this country and the world as clear and as positive a program as anyone could ask for. None can doubt where we stand.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

Knoxville, Iowa, Express: "Too many of the things we call benefits are not what they represent. No government can support the people."

Washington, D. C. Post: "The Department of Commerce has announced that, beginning April 1, it will get out a daily newspaper on Federal purchases, the first time Uncle Sam has entered the daily publishing field. The Commerce newspaper, which will sell for only 17¢ a year on a subscription basis, is in direct competition with several private enterprises."

Ambridge, Pa. Citizen: "Argentina was once a country noted for its production of beef cattle. Its prosperity depended on trade with the rest of the world. Under Peron a serious meat shortage has developed and a rising inflation is threatening Argentina's economy. The poor is promised to help are worse off than they were before."

Waco, Texas, Messenger: "While it is apparently true that dictators will not thrive in a democracy it is also true that whenever people fail to vote there are opened avenues over which people travel towards dictatorship."

Maine 4-H club boys and girls are enrolled in about 5,000 projects in agriculture and homemaking and allied subjects. They learn to do by doing.

CONGRESSIONAL QUIZ

- Q—Is Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, now Secretary of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the first woman to hold a cabinet post? A—No, she is the second. Miss Frances Perkins was Secretary of Labor under Franklin D. Roosevelt.
- Q—What has been proposed for the government-owned rubber plant? A—President Eisenhower recommended to Congress April 13 that the $550 million rubber plants under government ownership be sold to private industry. He said the disposal must be in line with three objectives: The facilities should return to the government "their full fair value"; they should be disposed of in a manner that would insure the public and fabricators "the benefits of fair competition"; and they should be sold "on such terms as will guarantee their ready availability . . . in time of emergency."
- Q—What procedure is required for amending the U. S. Constitution? A—The Constitution itself states in Article V: "The Congress, whenever two-thirds of both Houses shall deem it necessary, shall propose Amendments to this Constitution, or, on the Application of the Legislatures of two thirds of the several States, shall call a Convention for proposing Amendments, which, in either Case, shall be valid to all Intents and Purposes as Part of this Constitution, when ratified by the Legislatures of three fourths of the several States, or by Conventions in three fourths thereof, as the one or the other Mode of Ratification may be proposed by the Congress . . ."
- Q—Could a Constitutional amendment be proposed and ratified without a vote of Congress? A—According to the American Law Section of the Library of Congress, this is an academic question since all amendments so far have been proposed by Congress. However, the legal specialists said even if Congress did not propose the amendment and the alternative method for proposing an amendment — by Constitutional convention — were employed, the Congress probably would have to vote on a resolution to submit the amendment proposed by Constitutional Convention to the States for ratification.

No doubt about it...

Chevrolet trucks must be the best buy!

This year—for the 12th straight production year—truck users are buying more Chevrolet trucks than any other make. That couldn't be true unless Chevrolet trucks offered more of what you want.

Already, 1953's official sales figures tell a remarkable story of clear-cut and decisive preference for Chevrolet trucks. But, this is not surprising, for truck users everywhere are discovering how far ahead of all others Chevrolet trucks really are.

They are discovering things like the tremendous new power in advanced Loadmaster engines in heavy-duty models... the remarkable gasoline economy... the extra ruggedness and strength of heavier, more rigid frame construction. And, in addition to all these advantages, the Chevrolet line lists for less than any other trucks of comparable size and capacity. So, before you buy any truck, stop in and see us.

Fear not for I am with thee. (Isaiah 43:5) Read Psalm 138:8 or I John 5:1-5.

BOMBERS thundered overhead as the little family found shelter in the trench. As the bombs fell, the mother, the father and the children sat in tense silence. Only the terrified baby in its mother's arms cried out.

Suddenly, the little five-year-old boy reached out his hand toward his baby brother. The baby's fingers took hold of it. "Don't cry," the older brother said. "I will sing you a song. Then you won't be afraid." He sang:

"Do not fear, God is near
All the bright stars say."
The child, the son of Buddhists, had been attending a church school under the tree. It was there that he had learned to sing this song and to worship.

Life brings to us fears, uncertainties, sorrows; but that which in a day of terror brought confidence to the heart of the little boy is ever the same message for all God's children. The victory that overcomes the world is our faith in Christ.

Prayer

How grateful we are, Father, for Thy presence with us in life's way. We entrust ourselves to Thy care. Help us to go forward in quiet trust, knowing with certainty that Thou art near, all the night and day. In our Redeemer's name. Amen.

Problems of the Christian Conscience (Temperance)
Lesson for May 24: I Corinthians 8: 7-13; 6: 18-20
Golden Text: I Corinthians 8: 13

The matter of which Paul writes was that of eating meat that had been offered unto idols. It had been taken away and placed on the market. The question was whether it was right or not for Christians to eat such meat. Was it contaminated by the fact that it had been employed in heathen worship? Some of the Corinthians Christians did not believe that eating such meat was wrong.

But there were some among the Christians in Corinth who did not believe they should use eat that had been offered unto idols. Among these Christians were some who had once been pagans and who had offered unto false gods, and it was possible that these would be badly influenced by something that might appear to them as a compromise with heathenism. They could not see how meat offered to idols could be eaten by Christians without placing approval upon idolatry.

There was something to be said for each side. But Paul was still another thing to be reckoned with—the influence a man might have upon others in eating meats offered to idols. And the principle he laid down would solve many difficulties. He wrote that if meat should make his brother to offend, he would eat no more meat as long as the world should stand. If you could justify to yourself moderns thinking, should you exercise the right you claim if your example hurts others?

And Jesus answered him, saying, It is written, That man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word of God.—(St. Luke 10: 4)

We need not go beyond ourselves and our daily needs and desires to know the everlasting truth in the saying of Christ Jesus. Neither a million dollars can give us, in our anguish and distress, a single moment of peace of mind or soul.

Only God, through His Son, our Saviour, can give us that blessing.

GIRL SCOUTS - PATROL FOUR. Patrol 4 of the Girl Scouts hold their regular meeting Thursday afternoon with two leaders and 15 girls present.

The opening ceremony was led by Marjane Brown, Nikki McMillin, Claire Berry and Dixie Brown. Lorinda Freeman gave a report on the first aid kit she had purchased for the Patrol. Marjane Brown brought in a cherry blossom and a violet which she had mounted to go in our flower booklet.

Each girl then reported on wild flowers and birds she has seen. The seeds we planted seem to be growing very well, we will soon have a contest with these. The girls then worked on their note books they are making. Next week we plan to go on a hike if it does not rain too hard!

BROWNIES Troop No. 5 met Wednesday afternoon at Rachel MacKay's. We all went to the golf links and practiced marching. We are going to march Memorial Day in the parade. We had our pictures taken. We marched back to Rachel's and Darcene, Judy, and Sue served make-believe tea. We are going to have an all-day picnic next Wednesday. We will eat supper outdoors and transportation home will be furnished. In case of rain the picnic will be postponed to the next week.

RAND, BRIGGS DELEGATES TO HOLSTEIN CONVENTION. Beverly P. Rand, of Sherman Mills, and Hugh C. Briggs, Jr., of Turner, have been named as Maine's delegates to the 68th annual convention of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America. The session will be held in St. Paul, Minnesota, on June 1 to 4. Fred I. Statter of Corinna, Holstein breeder and Maine commissioner of agriculture, will serve on a panel on the program to discuss, "The Effect of Artificial Insemination on the Holstein Breed."

Maine - of all the states in the Northeast - offers the greatest opportunity for agricultural expansion, says Maine Commissioner of Agriculture Fred J. Nutter.

I DON'T particularly like cats. Especially, John Alden, the big Persian that the boys own and who rules the house. I just leave him strictly alone.

Miss Fannie, our nosy neighbor, doesn't like cats either, but she's not so smart. She didn't have sense enough to ignore him. For years she has been running him out of her yard. The other day she added her brother's dog to her campaign.

I'm watching through the hedge as she brings out this big dog on a leash. She sees the cat and sics the dog on him. John Alden went up a tree. When the dog got beneath him he leaped on the dog's back and went to work. The dog fled dragging Miss Fannie.

In a few minutes John Alden came strutting back up and rubbing his bruised knees. John arched his back and started stalking her. Miss Fannie fled. This time she went up the tree.

For ten minutes she hung on without a murmur while John Alden sat looking up at her. Every time she started down he would arch his back and howl. Up she would go again.

Finally she let out a scream for help and I poked my head through the hedge.

"Take this beast away," she screams. "Now he starts attacking people."

"What did you do to him?" says I.

"Nothing," says she.

"Good-bye," says I and went into the house.

At supper time John Alden came home with a satisfied look on his face. I fed him hamburger instead of canned dog food. When he finished I got up and gave him my easy chair.

I'm beginning to like that animal.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank each and every one for their thoughtfulness shown me during my illness this winter and for the lovely flowers, gifts and cards sent me while I was at the hospital. I especially want to thank the Sunset Rebekah Lodge for the pretty rose bowl and the Pleasant Valley Grange for the nice sunshine box. It was all very much appreciated. It is nice to know one has so many friends in time of sickness.

NEW "H" BONDS PAY

3 PER CENT INTEREST

Sales of U. S. Savings Bonds, Series E and H combined, in Oxford County for the four months ended April 30, 1953 amounted to $164,633, of 20.4 percent of the year's quota of $758,000, according to George H. Viles of South Paris, County Chairman of the U. S. Savings Bonds Committee.

The State as a whole has reached 26.2 percent of quota, Chairman Viles stated, and our county stands in 10th place among the counties.

The Series "E" bonds are familiar to all of us. Most of us are purchasing them regularly, but are we informed about the new Series "H" bonds?

These new bonds pay a liberal 3% interest when held to maturity (9 years, 8 months). Payment of interest is made by U. S. Treasury check mailed directly to you each 6 months, and they are redeemable at par at any time after 6 months. Most banks will take your order for these bonds.

Enjoy the convenience of receiving your interest by mail and the secure feeling of knowing your funds are invested in United States savings bonds. Series "H" bonds have been designed for the individual and only individuals can buy them. Remember you get the full 3% by holding these to maturity.

It's a Girl

By Hannah Smith

IT WAS downright silly, after fourteen years, for Laura to break down and cry. That's what her husband Joe pointed out to her as he stood at the window with her looking out at the cause of her tears — their fourteen-year-old daughter, Rosalie. Not that anyone ever called her that. Ever since Rosalie was three and kicked the minister behind his pink clerical ear, she had been known to all and sundry as Butch.

"Butch," Laura took on a more hopeless look at the Jesuitical figure hanging upside down from the tree branch and groaned. "When I think how much I dreamed of having a girl!"

After three boys, it had seemed like a miracle that morning in the hospital when the nurse brought her the joyous news — "It's a girl!" And such a pretty little girl.

Lying there in bed, Laura had dreamed happily. Of pink pinafores, of dancing school and piano lessons, of fairy costumes for school plays.

When Butch was four, Laura had given the last of the ragged, grass-stained pinafores to the Good Will and bought six pairs of blue jeans with reinforced knees.

When Butch was eight, after the fist fight at the tap dance recital, Laura took her out of dancing school and let her take the swimming lessons she begged for.

And at eleven, in the sixth grade play, while the other little girls filtered daintily in gilt-splashed white crepe paper, Butch had been the Hairy Ogre in a black wig, a foot-long beard and a mouthful of horrible scraggle teeth.

"I kept hoping and hoping," Laura said almost to herself. "That she'd grow out of it."

"I don't see why you're so upset all of a sudden," Joe said. "She's always been this way. What set you off right now?"

"Don't laugh, but I guess it was seeing that boy — the one who moved in next door yesterday. He's an awfully good looking kid. In a couple of years — well, she could go to dances and —" She broke off, mopping fresh tears.

"Oh, well," Joe said, comfortingly. "It not convincingly. 'Two years is a long time. She can change, I guess."

"Not Butch. When the other girls are dancing, she'll probably be under a car fixing a plugged gas line or —"

"This the new boy?" Joe asked, as a tall, black-haired boy in grey flannels and a yellow sweater strolled toward the noisy group around the tree. Laura groaned and nodded. Just as the newcomer approached, Butch swung her legs above her head and did a neat double flip over the tree branch.

Laura's groan stretched to a wail. "Look at her! Just look! Blonde hair, a witch mop. Plaid shirt tall flying. Dirty jeans. And barefoot. Barefoot!"

"Watch out below!" yelled Butch, letting go of the branch.

Laura shut her eyes. She turned her back to the window. "Butch," she whispered in tones of unflinching tragedy.

Joe was still watching. "Guess that flop shook her up a little," he said. "She's coming in."

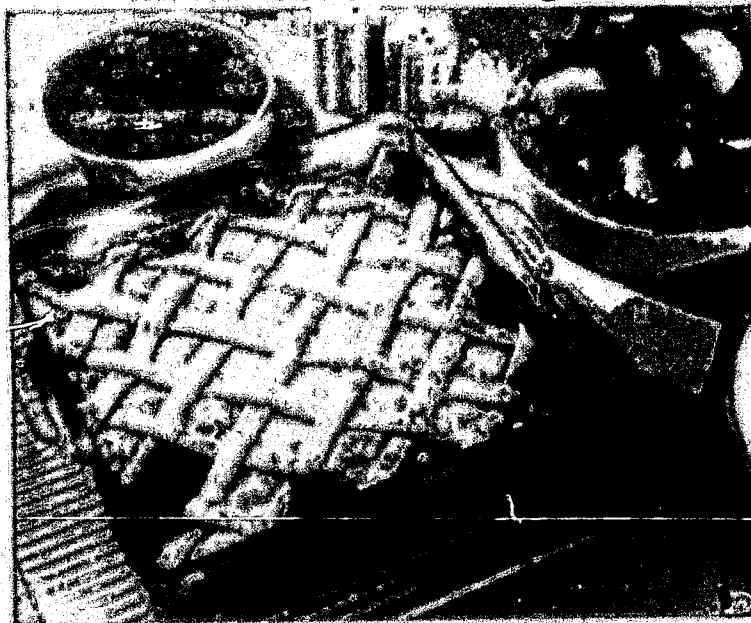

The door opened. Ollie Williams was ahead. He was looking back over his shoulder, round-eyed.

Over Butch's head, Laura saw that the other boys were staring at the pair in the doorway with the same round-eyed bewilderment. Laura stared, too.

The girl was leaning hard on the yellow shoulder. Her blue eyes looked wide, sweet, limpid. She seemed frail, small, even ethereal. "Does it hurt much?" Ollie was asking, in a strange new voice.

"How many times do I have to tell you, Ollie Williams," said Laura's daughter, as the tall, dark-haired boy led her gently toward a chair, "that my name is Rosalie?"

EASY DOES IT
BY HELEN MALE

Did you know that many foods can be refrigerated until heating, baking or serving time? Take advantage of the refrigerator to save last minute food preparation.

Muffin batters can be stored right in their greased tins, tightly covered with waxed paper or aluminum foil, to prevent crusting of the batter. Pop in the oven before mealtime to bake.

Want to have something creamed for dinner? Keep a jar of cream sauce in the refrigerator and you'll be ready for quick creamed things on a few moments' notice.

If you have difficulty in keeping the cookie jar well stocked, keep cookie doughs in your freezing unit. Most doughs will benefit by the chilling process. In this way you

RECIPE OF THE WEEK
Cranberry Ham Balls
(Serves 4)

2 cups ground, cooked ham
1/2 cup fine bread crumbs
1 egg, slightly beaten
2 tablespoons milk
1/4 teaspoon allspice
1/4 teaspoon pepper
Dash of cloves
1 can jellied cranberry sauce
1 teaspoon vinegar

Combine all ingredients except cranberry sauce and vinegar. Shape into eight balls. Brown on all sides in 2 tablespoons melted fat, in skillet. Heat cranberry sauce in small saucepan; add vinegar. Pour over the ham balls, cover skillet and cook for 20 minutes.

can mix and store, then bake at your leisure.

Yeast doughs for rolls and coffee cake keep for several days when refrigerated. Take off part of the dough, enough for your needs and let the rest keep chilling until needed.

Croquettes will fry better in that they hold their shape, if they're chilled. Put the mixture together in the morning, shape and chill until ready to fry.

Make your salads in advance, except for tossing together! They will be crisp-cold and more palatable. Wrap washed and prepared vegetables in plastic bags before serving time.

Having breaded cutlets or fish? The egg and crumb coating will stay on better during the frying process if they're well refrigerated after the coating is put on them.

For better quality, higher yields, and bigger profits plant Maine Blue Tag certified seed potatoes. It pays.

A peek at THE STARS
By LYN CONNELLY

A new sound is being heard over the Mutual Network these days and it's the lilting melodic tinkling of an old-fashioned music box as heard by great-granddads in the roaring '80's . . . It's the All-sweet Music Box program broadcast weekdays from 11:25 to 11:30 AM CST, a mile but mighty show with John Weigel as disc jockey . . . Regina, the actual name of the music box, is a genuine antique that plays old steel discs and predates the phonograph, having been invented in 1888 . . . Though a Swiss invention, it was only a matter of time before the Regina found a prominent place in the American parlor . . . The more modest homes sported them at a cost of $100 to $150, while the palatial models boasted a price range from $465 to $1,000, but both styles played the same perforated steel discs.

John Weigel, disc jockey of the steel platters, has an excellent background for his job . . . He began his radio career while still a high school student in Ohio, and cut a lot of radio teeth on such oldies as "Myrt and Marge," "The Buddy Clark Show," and "Fred Waring's early originations from the midwest . . . Weigel became interested in the Regina when he saw it on display in a museum, collected hundreds of nostalgic hard-to-find platters, and now enlightens the MBS listening world with unusual anecdotes about each melody aired by his All-sweet Music Box.

It should also be added, all of Weigel's patter is in the vernacular of the roaring '80's which puts the final touch of nostalgia to this unusual five-minute broadcast . . . Here is something unique and different for the discriminate radio listener.

A pretty good way to tell the character of a driver is to listen to his horn. An automobile horn can shout rudely "Hey, you! Get out of my way!" or it can say politely "Thank you, please!" It all depends upon the attitude of man behind the wheel.

GOULD WINS BATES RELAYS

Gould demonstrated clear superiority in scoring power Saturday when eaten. One makes your nose grow long; the other makes it short. With the advice and help of Red Jacket and by use of their magic gifts and the fruit of the Nose Tree they are able to destroy completely the power that Hexen holds over Princess Graceful. Once again, King Goodman's kingdom becomes a happy, gay place to live in and the three soldiers have indeed done a good deed.

Mrs. Faye Taylor is directing this play and has a cast of very capable youngsters under her. The parts of the three soldiers are to be played by Mark Freeman, Richard Saunders, Melvin Jodrey; Red Jacket, the elf is played by Judy Howe; Hexen, the witch, by Betsy Chapman. The play was the sensation of the morning field competition as the Bethel boys assumed a slender lead. Bacon was a triple champion in the shot, discus, and javelin, and he tied for third in the high jump to net 16½ points. Gould led Wells 25½ to 23 entering the afternoon battling.

Aldo from its record-equalling mile relay combine, Gould had another relay winner, in the 400 event. The Huskies were shut out only in the broad jump. Wells drew a blank only in the medley relay.

"THE NOSE TREE" TO BE PRESENTED BY BETHEL PLAYERS

On this coming Saturday morning the doors of William Bligham Gymnasium will open at 9:30 a. m., and at 10:30 the show will start. This is a new venture for the Players in that it is their first children's play.

The play was written by Roy Charles Pendleton and is a children's play in three acts, based on an old Celtic folk tale. This fairy story tells of Jonnie, Thom, and Mick, three tired soldiers returning home. On their journey they enter a strange kingdom and there meet an engaging elf, Red Jacket, who wants to help them because they are discouraged and poor. He gives them three magic gifts, a cloak, a trumpet, and a purse. Later, when the soldiers return to thank Red Jacket for his kindness, they find the kingdom in a terrible state, having fallen under the influence of a wicked witch named Hexen. King Goodman is distressed because his once beautiful daughter, Princess Graceful, has changed without knowing it and is becoming as ugly and sly as Hexen.

Jonnie, Thom and Mick discover a very odd tree, called the Nose Tree, which bears two kinds of fruit—which have strange results when eaten. One makes your nose grow long; the other makes it short. With the advice and help of Red Jacket and by use of their magic gifts and the fruit of the Nose Tree they are able to destroy completely the power that Hexen holds over Princess Graceful. Once again, King Goodman's kingdom becomes a happy, gay place to live in and the three soldiers have indeed done a good deed.

Mrs. Faye Taylor is directing this play and has a cast of very capable youngsters under her. The parts of the three soldiers are to be played by Mark Freeman, Richard Saunders, Melvin Jodrey; Red Jacket, the elf is played by Judy Howe; Hexen, the witch, by Betsy Chapman.
